

GREAT CROWD WITNESSED
OPENING OF FESTIVAL

FIRST NIGHT WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Gorgeous Parade Through Brilliantly Illuminated Streets Inaugurate Festivities.

GALA SPIRIT IS PREVAILING

Large Program of Free Attractions Provided by Committee Shows Exceptional Merit.

The Fall Festival is on. After weeks of work and preparation the Festival Committee Monday night had the pleasure and reward of seeing their efforts crystallized into a grand and spectacular opening, and the dreams and expectations of the youth of Seymour became a reality in the brilliant lights, the great crowd, the music, the free attractions and the dazzling display of illuminative and decorative effects.

Long before time for the parade to start the crowds began to gather and when the Ewing's Zouave Band struck up the opening air the streets were filled with eager, expectant crowds. The band was secured through the Cooperative Theatrical Booking Association of which Mrs. W. W. Eagleston is manager.

The downtown streets appeared to excellent advantage in the blaze of electricity which flooded the festival district. Besides the illumination supplied by the Interstate Public Service Company the individual merchants seemed to have tried to out do one another in showing up their places of business in decorative lighting effects. Intermingled with the festival colors of red and yellow, which was carried out in all the decorations, were the Red, White and Blue of Old Glory, which reflected by the light from the countless electric blubs, produced an effect that was at once pleasing and patriotic.

The Festival Spirit seemed to possess the crowds and they were quiet and well mannered, while at the same time fully enjoying the occasion and bent on taking in everything in sight.

The Festival Committee met at headquarters at 6:45 and at 7 everything was in readiness for the opening parade. The police force, augmented by the eight special officers appointed for the week, all in spotless new white uniforms and carrying wicked looking clubs, finally cut a lane through the crowd sufficient for the parade to move.

The squad of police led the procession and following them were the Zouave Band, the Mayor and the members of the city council and the members of the various Festival Committees, all wearing broad smiles and the official badge and carrying fancy

Jackson County Grains, Fruits and Vegetables Are Interesting to the Great Crowds.

The various exhibit booths present convincing truth that Jackson Co. yields to no other county or section of the state in the production of grains, fruits, vegetables and other products of garden, farm and orchard.

The corn booth, No. 1, in front of the First National Bank, is in charge of Charles Roeger. There are over 130 entries, including both white and yellow corn. The entries include both single ears and the regular display entry, six ears. The corn is of excellent quality, large, perfectly filled ears, and entries have been made from all parts of the county. L. M. Vogler, of Hope, a corn expert, and an acknowledged authority on the grain, will be the judge of the exhibit here.

The small grain exhibit in front of the Seymour National Bank, is in charge of P. A. Nichter, and shows excellent samples of wheat, oats and clover.

The Fruit display, both No. 3, on Second street near Chestnut, is in charge of L. L. Bollinger and Fred Able. The display of Jackson County fruit is commanding much attention and causing much favorable comment. It proves beyond a doubt that Jackson County apples and other fruits, when given proper attention and scientific horticultural treatment, are the equal of the products of any of the far famed fruit belts of the country. The exhibit includes displays of Grimes Golden, Wine Sap, Roman Beauty, Black Sweet, Jonathan, Talpahawkin, Delicious, Fall Pippin and Ben Davis apples, pears, peaches, quinces and plums.

The committee has received so many entries of apples that they are considering giving premiums to the best display of each variety, and one sweepstakes prize for the best display. There are over fifty entries.

The canned goods display, Booth No. 6, at Chestnut and Tipton streets, is in charge of Mrs. John Dehler and shows some beautiful exhibits of canned fruits and vegetables. In the fruits, there are canned and preserved peaches, plums, raspberries, grapes, quinces, pears and strawberries, also jams and jellies.

Program of Attractions.

The entertainment committee has arranged the program for the several attractions and the hours when each performance will be given as follows:

West Second Street Stage: 1:30 o'clock each afternoon and 7:30 o'clock each night. The attractions are: Zat Zams in a knife throwing act, the Zouave drill, Leslie's Barnyard Circus and Zat Zams Illusions.

Tipton Street: 3 o'clock each afternoon and 9 o'clock each night. The attractions are: The Kawana Japs in an balancing act, O'Doie giving the unsupported latter performance. The Kawana Japs in a barrel spinning act and Montrose and Hamilton featuring in a barrel jumping act.

East Second Street: Each afternoon at 4 o'clock and each night at 9:45 o'clock. In this act Saymoa presents his thrilling cloud swing.

High Wire Act: This is given each afternoon at 4:15 o'clock and each night at 10:00 o'clock on West Second street between Chestnut street

GOLDEN WEDDING IS CELEBRATED

Mr. and Mrs. John Eastwood, of this City, Married in Connecticut Fifty Years Ago Today.

RECEPTION IN THEIR HONOR

Couple were Natives of England but Came to Seymour and had Part in Developing this Community.

In honor of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John Eastwood, a reception was held this afternoon at the home of their daughter, Mrs. A. P. Carter, on West Fourth street. More than seventy-five of their friends called in response to invitations to extend congratulations. Although Mr. Eastwood is in his seventy-eighth year and his wife is seventy-one years of age, both are enjoying good health and are as active as many people at sixty.

The Carter home was attractively decorated for the occasion, the color scheme being gold and green. An abundance of golden rods and ferns were used in the parlors and dining room. In the parlor where the guests were received large bowls of golden rods were placed about the room and in the corner was a huge bank of ferns and other greenery. Above the table in the dining room was suspended a large bell of golden rod.

Mr. and Mrs. Eastwood have long lived in Seymour and Jackson county and have a wide acquaintance. They came to this city when it was a small village and have watched its growth into a prosperous commercial center with the many improvements that characterize Seymour as a leading southern Indiana city. Many of their friends who were here when they came to the town have passed to the Great Beyond and only the memory of those early pleasant acquaintanceships linger with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Eastwood were married at Ketches' Mill, Conn., on Oc-and Indianapolis avenue. This is one of the most spectacular acts of the festival.

It is announced that each the acts will take place promptly at the hour published. There can be no delays because of the long program which is given each afternoon and night. However, on Thursday afternoon there may be a slight interruption of this schedule on account of the dedication of the Farmers' Club building.

Ewing's Zouave Band will give a concert each morning. These will be held alternatively on the stages on Tipton and Second streets. The first concert was given this morning at 10 o'clock on the West Second street stage. Tomorrow it will take place at the same hour on Tipton street and on Thursday morning on West Second street.

The entertainment committee received a message this morning that the short weights and measure exhibit given under the direction of the state department will arrive here this week and will be arranged later.

Speaker Tells of the Splendid Manufacturing Plants Which Sell Products Throughout the World.

With a brief address Monday night from the stage on Tipton street Mayor John A. Ross formally opened the Free Fall Festival. It is estimated for approximately four thousand people were crowded around the stand but the crowd was so large that all of them could not hear the remarks.

Deputy Prosecutor F. W. Wesner delivered a short address in which he explained the purpose of the festival and referred to the Farmers' Club building. He introduced Mayor Ross who spoke as follows:

"Fellow citizens, neighbors and friends: We have met this evening not only for a worthy but a very agreeable purpose. Worthy from the fact that the Fall Festival had its inception in the idea that we should have an exhibit of home products both manufactured and agricultural and thereby bring our people to a full realization of the amount of space Seymour and Jackson County occupies on the map of Indiana.

"Having observed these beautiful and artistic decorations; having visited the various display booths of agricultural products; and having inspected the made at home products in the big tent, I am sure you will have a greater local pride, and a stimulus to review your efforts for greater achievements.

"Many of us knew Seymour was something of a manufacturing place, few of however realized the variety extent and quality of the output. In

IS MORE EXTENDED

Situation on the Right Bank of the Somme is Unchanged, Says Official Report.

GERMAN ATTACKS IN BELGIUM

Reported that Attempts to Route the Enemy in the Belgian Theater of War have All Failed.

Bulletin.

Berlin, October 6.—An official statement today said that Fort Camp DeRomain near St. Mihiel, was taken after a hard fight. Five French officers and more than five hundred men were made prisoners. The remainder of the men perishing in the ruins.

By United Press.

Paris, October 6.—The text of the 3 o'clock statement issued by the war office today is as follows:

"On our left wing the front is becoming more and more extended. Five German forces near Lillie are advancing before the enemy who are making a movement north of the line northeast and west by north of Lillie.

"Across Arras and on the right bank of the Somme the situation is unchanged. Between the Somme and the Oise there have been alternative advantages and retirements.

"Near Lassingy the enemy tried a fierce attack which failed. On the right bank of the Aisne and at the north of Soissons we have advanced slightly cooperating with the British army.

"We have also made some progress near Berry-Au-Bac. On the rest of the front the situation continues unchanged.

In the Belgian theater of war the Belgian forces are occupying the territory from Ruttel to the Nethe and the German attacks on this position have failed."

GERMAN STATEMENT SAYS
SITUATION IS FAVORABLE

Declares That Troops on Both Wings of Battle Line in France Are Slowly Progressing.

By United Press.

"Berlin, October 6.—The official war bulletin stated today:

"The offensive of the German troops on both wings of the battle line in France continues and we are pushing forward slowly and in perfect order. We now occupy the former positions of the Allies on the western front, but the fighting continues with no letup. Under our overwhelming pressure on both wings we have compelled the enemy to take up less advantageous positions. In the east we continue our offensive unchecked."

NEW MOVEMENT IS TRIED BY GERMANS

Believed That They Will Attempt to Destroy Railroad Used for Relief of Brussels.

GERMAN SUCCESS EXPLAINED

French Colonel Declares Artillery and Cavalry Are Being Used Together for the First Time.

By United Press.

Paris, October 6.—The Germans are believed today to be trying an encircling movement of their own. The official afternoon statement reports the presence of the German cavalry near Lillie. It is believed here this is nearly a reconnoitering force but since the main line of the railway which will be used for the relief of Brussels and Antwerp goes through Lillie it is possible the Germans will try to destroy this line.

The general statement was encouraging. The fierce fighting which has been in progress for nearly a week near Arras continues unchecked but the Germans have failed to gain any substantial advantage.

Between the Oise and Somme River the engagements continue to fluctuate with no indication of a decisive battle.

An explanation of the Germans success in holding the positions and forcing the Allies to give away at certain points came from the French colonel who arrived here today wounded. No troops fought so wildly as the Germans did," he said. "They tried a new trick in warfare. They are combining artillery and cavalry for the first time. They have brought high power automobiles upon which they have mounted big guns. One of these guns travels with each cavalry department. Who ever heard of artillery and cavalry going together before?"

In general the military experts declare there is no cause for alarm.

VILLISTA FORCES BEGIN A BOMBARDMENT OF NACO

Desultory Fighting Goes on Constantly but Little Impression has been Made.

By United Press.

Washington, October 6.—The Villista forces in Sonora have begun a siege of Naco, just across the Arizona border by investing the town on the south and west. Desultory firing goes on constantly but no impression so far has been made. A general assault on the trenches of the 2,500 Carranzista soldiers is not expected for at least a week.

This was the substance of a dispatch to the war department today from General Bliss in command of the United States border troops.

THE WAY SPIES ARE DEALT WITH

A Double Execution Under Dramatic Circumstances.

STORY OF AN EYEWITNESS.

Accompanied French Sentry Who Was Tracking German Wire Tappers and Saw Sight That Made Him Thrill "With a Vague Sickness" and That Haunts Him Yet.

A correspondent sends to the New York Times from France this dramatic story of the execution of two German spies:

A soldier comes out from behind a pine tree with rifle and fixed bayonet. "Ou allee-vous?" he says, stepping before me.

"Je vais me promener," I reply, and anticipate his next demand by displaying my special permit.

"Monsieur is ze man that writes? I shake you by ze hand with ver' great pleasure."

He beckons me back among the trees "One comes!" he says. "S-sh!"

"You see him!" he asks a moment later. "Zere by ze coulver." S-st

We both bent forward. A hundred yards down the narrow path, among the pines, a man in a workman's blue blouse is standing, looking in every direction. Suddenly he takes a couple of steps in among the trees.

Stalking the Enemy's Messenger.

The soldier begins to tiptoe down among the trees, keeping a few paces away from the path. I am following. As we go down, a step at a time, noiselessly on the pine needles, there sounds a very soft whistle below, which is answered immediately from somewhere to the left and further down the slope of the pine covered hill.

We take a few more steps in utter silence, then pause and listen. I hear the sound now, a soft and cautious scraping of earth.

The sentry begins to go forward again, and suddenly we open out a vista, long and narrow, among the trees. Seeming far away, perhaps 200, perhaps 250 yards downhill, a figure is lying on its stomach, its face close to the earth. Near to the head there is what appears at this distance to be a small box.

The sound of something scraping softly at the earth continues. It is now on our right front, and suddenly I see the man we have already seen. He is about forty yards away, kneeling down. He is lifting something which looks like a narrow slab of stone. He is stooping now into some cavity which he has just laid open. He takes a pair of wire cutters from his pocket, and I hear the snick distinctly as he cuts through something in the cavity.

The sound catches the hearing of the soldier, and he glances to his right swiftly.

I hear the half hissed "arrre!" again as he sees the second man. Then suddenly he pushes his rifle forward.

I thrill with a vague sickness, for I know that I am going to see a brief glimpse of the war horror there among the hushed sunlight and the shadow of the tree boles.

What It All Meant.

Far down the hillside, at the end of the narrow vista among the trees, the second man has suddenly risen. So utter is the silence that I can hear him plainly as he coughs. He begins to haul on something, and I realize suddenly the meaning of the whole incident that I am watching. The two men have located the underground private telephone wire going up to the fort. They have been tapping it for any news they might pick up, and now they are removing a couple of hundred meters of wire bodily, after which no doubt they will replace the slabs which cover that roof in the underground channel and smooth back the earth and pine needles over the two disturbed places.

The soldier is methodical. He takes the distant man first. Kneeling there behind him, I watch with a growing thrill and tension of tragedy and sickness his sunburned cheek cuddle against the stock of his rifle.

"Cr-rack!" comes the sharp, snapping bang of the weapon, and the man down the vista of trees gives a queer little jump and then turns right around quickly and looks behind him, and thus looking and seemingly unaware that he is the person who has been shot his heart stops, and he rolls over quite easily and gently on his side—a merciful enough death, as these violent deaths go.

And then, as I stare, the rifle goes "Cr-rack!" again, and I jump, for I am still looking at the silent figure down the vista of trees.

But the soldier has been attending to his business and has snapped off a second shot (less well aimed than the first because of the sudden need for haste) at the nearer man, for the man has started to bolt. And because the shot was hastily aimed the second death is as cruel as the first was merciful. I cannot go into details, but the soldier has to use a third cartridge before the end comes.

An examination of both bodies shows that the men were German spies in possession of "ciphered" information.

"Espionage is become ver' difficile profession in France, monsieur," says the soldier as he rolls a cigarette.

I nod, but I find it difficult to say anything just at the moment.

The Warrior

Primeval man was all untaught. And crude of manners as of speech. He made himself a club and fought. The foe that strayed within his reach. He fought for shelter or for food; He fought to conquer or to die. He loved his own, though fierce his mood. And when he fought he well knew why.

As time has marched the bugle note Resounds instead of nature's growl. Resplendent banners proudly float Where wild men once were wont to brawl.

The battle is a fearful show. Primeval man was rude and grim, But when he met and slew a foe He knew just why he hated him. —Washington Star.

WHEN SOLDIERS ARE AFRAID AND BRAVEST.

Fear Greater While Awaiting Order to Charge Than In Midst of Fighting.

Some psychological studies as to the sensations of the soldier who faces a shower of bullets, which were written by Colonel Margiarotti of the Italian army, are published as timely in the Bohemia, a newspaper in Prague.

The question as to how a soldier feels at the height of battle was put to about 2,000 men who had seen service in Tripoli. Almost to a man they agreed that the sensation experienced in battle itself was not as strong as the fear before the battle. The most excitable moment was that in which the first shots were fired. The worst experience of most of the soldiers was having to stand still in line of battle. It was the greatest relief imaginable to be ordered to run forward. Some said their sensations in battle included trembling, tears, hair standing on end, hoarseness and even yawning.

All of the replies indicated that the soldiers were largely influenced by the conduct of their immediate superiors. Asked whether it was patriotism, oath of fidelity or the thoughts of penalties to which they were liable that led men forward to their duty, almost all of the men replied, "I went forward because my lieutenant went forward." The officers above lieutenants were rarely mentioned, for the men did not come much in contact with them.

It has been claimed by many historians that such valiant soldiers as Henry IV. and Frederick the Great were trembling during battles.

HOW TO WIN BACK A WIFE.

Tact, Diplomacy and Much "Sugar" Recipe of a Supreme Court Justice.

Analyzing the matrimonial conditions of today, Justice Morschauer of the New York supreme court in Brooklyn said recently:

"In the olden days as soon as a woman married a man she was absorbed by his family, but now when a woman marries a man she takes his name and then absorbs him."

Justice Morschauer was trying to find a way out of the difficulties of Joseph Maxwell and Mrs. Carrie Maxwell. Maxwell's aversion to his "people-in-law" hopelessly upset every scheme suggested by Justice Morschauer. Finally he declared:

"You are forever waving the red flag. You must learn to discard the use of vinegar and employ plenty of sugar when you see signs of an approaching marital storm. That's the only way for a married couple to get along."

"Tact is an absolute necessity for a happy marriage. You should never have been married. I know what a married man should do, for I am married, and if my wife and I had a disagreement it would take just two seconds to straighten things out."

"If you want to win back your wife you've got to go about it in the same way you did when you got her to marry you. Go and get her a box of candy; bring her a few flowers once in awhile; then sit down and talk this thing over with her."

NEW HOME FOR PRESIDENTS.

Summer Capital on Colorado Mountain Peak Ready Next Year.

The announcement that President Wilson has consented to lay the cornerstone of a proposed castle of granite upon the summit of Mount Falcon, in Colorado, places an official stamp upon the plan to dedicate the structure as the "summer capital" of the United States—as the residence of the president and his staff during the hot months. The castle is to cost $50,000 and its approaches $200,000 more. It is expected that the main part of the building will be completed in time for the president to spend there the summer of 1915.

The new summer capital will be upon the peak of a mountain which is several hundred feet more than a mile higher than the level of Washington. The foundations of the building are already in place. The site is upon land donated by John Brisben Walker. The plan of the summer capital was Mr. Walker's idea, which he has urged for several years.

Germans Plan For Winter Campaign.

The Germans are pushing forward with the utmost vigor their preparations for a winter campaign.

All the high class shops that formerly did nothing but make the best fur garments for ladies are busily engaged in the manufacture of sheepskin clothing for the soldiers. No fewer than 150,000 fur coats have been delivered, presumably for the use of officers, and 2,000,000 sheep and lamb skins have been bought by the government for winter garments for the men.

BEST STORIES OF ITS HORRORS

One Man's Thoughts and Feelings on Eve of Expected Execution.

AMONG the most thrilling stories of the war is one told by Laurence S. Stevens, formerly of Grand Rapids, Mich., but temporarily residing in Brussels, who, while riding within the German lines in an automobile engaged by a correspondent of the Chicago News, was arrested as a British spy and condemned to death and who suffered a night of horrors at Manage, Belgium.

Stevens has described how he felt while awaiting his fate, which he believed would be death. His story is told in the Chicago News.

"I asked for strength to hold out before the German guns like a man and show them that I was not frightened," he said.

"When the guard looked at me I said in broken German, 'Morgen schiessen?' (Shoot tomorrow?) He shrugged his shoulders and picked up an old curtain, rolled it into a bundle and placed it under my head. I fell asleep. At 4:30 a. m. I awoke when two sappers entered the room. One had a spade and a lantern and the other carried an acetylene searchlight. They played the light over the room and left the door ajar as they left.

"I saw them go across the courtyard to the wall, where one of them took the pick and started taking up stones, the second man using the spade in turning the earth. I could not keep my eyes off them. They fascinated me, for I was sure they were digging my own grave.

Planned How He'd Die.

"To make my death less ignominious I decided to keep my hands loosely in the rope until I faced the firing squad, when I would throw my hands out unfettered.

"Just before 6 o'clock a bugle sounded and everybody rose. The guards put on their cartridge belts and then waited five minutes, which seemed to me like half an hour. Then the order came to fall in. I wondered if my knees trembled, but they were as firm as ever. I wondered how the news of my death could reach my friend, Lew Richards, in Brussels, formerly pianist in a Detroit music school."

Stevens recounts his further harrowing experiences until finally after four days of agonizing suspense he realized his life was safe.

"Greatest of Follies."

There has been given out officially information concerning incidents of the fighting and personal experiences, which had been furnished by German prisoners or obtained from documents seized by French troops. It relates particularly to the fighting around Rheims between the 11th and the 16th of September.

A German artillery officer wrote: "Modern war is the greatest of follies. Companies of 250 men in the Tenth army corps have been reduced to seventy men, and there are companies of the guard commanded by volunteers of a year, all the officers having disappeared."

A Frenchman who comes from Montmartre found a Luxembourgish lying within a yard of him whom he had known as chasseur in a hotel in Paris. The young German wept to see his old acquaintance.

"It is stupid," he said, "this war. You and I were happy when we were good friends in Paris. Why should we have been made to fight with each other?" He died with his arms round the neck of the French soldier, who told the story, unashamed of his tears.

A Semisubterranean Town.

A correspondent describes the German trenches on the Aisne as a whole semisubterranean town, with main thoroughfares, side streets and telephone wires running all along. Here hundreds of thousands of men ate, lived, slept, yet were so well concealed that from a little way down the hill in front one would see nothing to tell of its existence, unless it were the hardly noticeable little bank of earth raised slightly above the surface of the ground.

Acts of Dauntless Courage.

M. Verlin, a French lieutenant, with fifty men, held at bay from a clump of woods 5,000 Germans, who were afraid it was a trap and fought from a distance. The little French detachment fired volley after volley until only thirteen remained alive.

Corporal Massell, awarded a medal by France, occupied an outlook post in a tree for three days, not coming down until he was wounded.

This feat was described by a British cavalry officer in a letter home: "A young lancer, not more than twenty, stripped of tunic and shirt, charged a German, pierced him to the heart, seized his horse as he fell and exchanged it for his own, which was hurt. Then, his sword sheathed like lightning, he swung around and shot a German through the head."

Mile In Air, Saw Battle.

A letter from an officer of the British royal flying corps, describing a view from an aeroplane of the battle eastward of Paris, says: "From a height of 5,000 feet I saw a sight which I hope it will never be my lot to see again. The woods and hills were literally cut to ribbons all along the south of Laon. It was marvelous watching hundreds of shells bursting below one to the right and to the left for miles and then to see the German guns replying."

Heroes Shout "Goodby!"

Thirty gunners of a British field battery, knowing that they were going to almost certain death, called out, "Good-by, fellows," to their comrades in the reserve line. Two minutes later every man was out of action.

Thirty more went to the front, with the same farewell greeting. The German shells were falling thickly behind the battery and killed or wounded every man serving the guns.

Diaries Recite Hardships.

More interesting statements gathered from the diaries of wounded Germans and prisoners have been published at Bordeaux. An army doctor writes:

"Sept. 9.—Terrible hunger; not a morsel of bread in eight days."

An officer of the Brunswick regiment made this record:

"Sept. 17.—In the region of Epernay. For five days we have fed ourselves on stolen beet roots and sugar, with not a morsel of bread. The losses are enormous."

A soldier of the Eighteenth corps has written:

"Bread once in eight days. Have neither washed nor slept. It will be a miracle if we see Germany again."

A reservist wrote: "Sept. 17.—Nothing to eat for three days. No bread, great losses."

A Hessian soldier inscribed this:

"In five weeks we have had bread three times. This evening we had potatoes, cooked—what a feast!"

The Germans prepared a trap for Belgian cavalry by excavating the highway to a great depth and planting 300 barrels without tops and covered with branches and earth.

Novel Use of Church Clock.

German officers and soldiers in plain clothes or in French or British uniforms have remained in localities evacuated by the Germans in order to furnish them with intelligence.

One spy of this kind was found hidden in a church tower. His presence was only discovered through the erratic movements of the hands of the church clock, which he was using to signal to his friends by means of an improvised semaphore code. Had this man not been seized it is probable he would have signaled to the German artillery at the time of their arrival the exact location of the enemy's headquarters and staff.

Flower Bed Hid Telephone.

"Looking out of the windows of a German military train when it stopped at Charleroi," says a correspondent, "I saw a German soldier bending over a flower bed on the grounds of the railway station. He seemed to be attentively examining the flowers. As he knelt there he frequently moved his hands gently among the blossoms as if he were caressing them."

"See," I said to one of my companions, "there is that beautiful German love of flowers again. With the ruins of whole streets of this town still smoking this private soldier finds time to admire a flower bed that has escaped destruction."

"We grew quite sentimental about the matter. Suddenly the man rose from his knees and with him there came from the flower bed a telephone receiver and two or three yards of telephone wire. Straightening himself, he put the receiver to his ear and spoke rapidly. We could hear some of the words. They appeared to be a repetition or verification of certain orders."

Soldier Rescued by a Dog.

Wounded thrice in the battle of the Marne, a soldier lay in a faint on a heap of corpses, when Tom, the regimental pet, revived him by licking his face.

The animal had been trained to carry caps, and the soldier, having lost his cap, tried to persuade the dog to take his knapsack to the encampment.

After awhile Tom seemed to realize what was wanted. He ran to the camp, seized the coat of the nearest man and tried to drag him to the battlefield. When a party finally followed the dog they found their wounded comrade and rescued him.

Air Men Hold Up Ships.

The London Standard gives a unique incident in warfare reported at Grims by the captain of the Dutch trawler Mariba, who said seven German hydroplanes stopped the Swedish steamer Bodel and made the Swedish captain alter his course to Helgoland.

The Dutch captain says the hydroplanes first approached his boat, but after satisfying themselves as to his nationality flew away. Six hydroplanes escorted the Swedish vessel on its way to Helgoland, apparently as a prisoner.

EXTRA! FOREIGN NAVAL BATTLE IN OUR WATERS!

No, the Movies Don't Figure In the Story—Schoolboys the Heroes.

The general public will be surprised to know that England and Germany have engaged in an heroic and desperate naval engagement in American waters. The vessels of the rival fleets included a number of the newest type of super-Dreadnought, several cruisers, a number of torpedo boats and destroyers, two sailing schooners and a raft.

The British won, for they avenged in mastery style the recent destruction of three cruisers in the North sea by a German submarine. And in this case it was the lowly raft that took the heart out of the German fleet. Manned by a devoted crew, all volunteers and picked for conspicuous bravery in the past, the raft had on board vast quantities of high explosives.

With fuse lighted, the raft put out from the southern shore, where it had been concealed in the shadow of a laurel bush.

Drifting on a favorable current, it bore down directly to the spot where the flower and main strength of the Teutonic war fleet lay, with clockwork engines stopped.

Hoarse commands as well as electric bell signals sounded as an endeavor was made to get under way. But it was too late. Current and fuse had been timed perfectly, and the charge, bearing death and destruction, exploded just as the raft brushed the side of the awe inspiring German leviathan Schoengartenhaus. The steel of her armor plate withstood the explosion well in that it was not pierced, but the force of the explosion was so tremendous that she turned turtle and sank. A number of seamen and marines went to a watery grave, but others were enabled to float until humanely picked up either by their own ships or those of the enemy.

And the raft—what of her? Every one of her bluejacketed, white helmeted Royal Marine Light Infantrymen went down unflinchingly with her blackened remnants.

The two sailing schooners, one on each side, did yeoman service in the battle, which now, it is stated, became almost a rout on the part of the Germans. Loaded with infantrymen and hurriedly equipped with field guns on carriages, they paired off, and participants in the engagement report that they furnished a fine example of good old fashioned "yardarm to yardarm" sea fight, with boarding parties, scuppers running blood and all the rest of it.

Where did this great battle take place? Why, in peaceful Rock Creek, Washington—after school was out!

A bulletin issued by the Germans some hours after the battle scoffs at the idea of any serious losses. "The Schoengartenhaus," it reads, "was, though large, an old and obsolete vessel, manned by a small crew purchased in toy stores a number of years ago. The main strength of our navy is still intact."

[N. B.—The high explosives were moderate sized cannon crackers.]

A GOVERNMENT NOAH'S ARK.

Investigation of Diseases of Man Object of Sanitarium For Animals.

Uncle Sam is building a Noah's ark in Washington in obedience to the law which requires the public health service to "investigate the diseases of man."

The monkey ward in the ark sanitarium is to be the most important. Monkeys will "take" almost any human disease.

Guinea pigs and rabbits will be used for testing the potency and purity of antitoxins and vaccines sold in interstate traffic. Calves will be dosed in this way with smallpox vaccine to determine the efficiency of the latter as an immunizer.

There will be a maternity ward and an "isolation ward" for animals with contagious diseases.

The discovery of a new comet by Professor Clarence T. Haggerty of the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanic Art is announced by the Harvard college observatory. A telegram from Professor Haggerty to the observatory said that the comet was visible to the naked eye and gave its position as right ascension 0 hours 5 minutes, declination minus 45 degrees at 11:30 p. m. Sept. 25.

HOW GERMANS IDENTIFY DEAD

Metal Tag With Number Worn by Each Soldier.

COUNTED BY BASKETFULS.

After Each Battle Collars of Slain Men Are Opened and Tag Sent to Headquarters — Officers and Privates Buried In the Same Trench at Liege In Contradiction to Custom.

In a dispatch from Liege a correspondent describes how the Germans identify those who are killed in battle. Extracts from his story follow:

Here where the tide of German advance for a time dashed on the rock and steel of Belgian forts I saw something which affected me far more than any of the sorrows of war I have yet encountered. It was a good sized basketful of metal tags under careful guard at military headquarters.

"They are all that is left of unser braven junge (our brave boys) who fell in and around Liege—their identification marks," said the officer.

I asked permission to examine one. It was a small tin tag with two holes for the string or ribbon. A large number was stamped on it and, below, the number of the regiment. The comparison is grotesque and much out of place, but the tag was much like some dog license tags I have seen.

"I saw the 'rest' of that tag and many others like it—rather the place where that 'rest' or remainder of that tag was. Between the forts Barchou and Evignes it was in the trenches where the Belgians received the Germans with a murderous fire, when they stormed those two forts—the first that fell—thereby getting an entrance into the city. It was here that these men went down like grass before the scythe."

Nothing Could Stop Them.

"The Germans had come on, and nothing could stop them—they seemed to go to their death gladly, as one Belgian remarked to me. The Belgian trenches now are filled and leveled. I could hardly find them even with a guide. They were filled with the fallen. One grave was about sixty feet long. Another was eighty or ninety feet.

Here is where the metal tags were gathered. Each man and officer wears one around his neck. That of the private is usually a tag with a number corresponding with the number opposite his name on his company and regimental rolls.

"Many also have the number of their regiment on the tag. The tags of the officers usually are of aluminum and besides the number have the name and rank, sometimes also the home address. Some of the privates also have substituted the tin tag with an aluminum one purchased by themselves, upon which are stamped the name and address and regiment, besides the required number."

"After the battle, when the Germans find their dead, the collar on each shirt is opened, the string cut and the tag taken and sent to headquarters for identification. There the books are opened and 'fallen,' together with the place of fight or battle is written opposite the name and number of the dead soldier."

Death Great Leveler.

"At Liege, probably for the first time in German wars, death obliterated distinction in rank. For the first time, so far as I can learn, German officers and common soldiers were buried in the same trench."

"It has always been the rule—a sort of unwritten law—that every fallen officer should have a separate grave and not be buried in the common trench. To a large extent this is still done, especially with officers of higher rank than captain. But the unprecedented mobility and rapid advance of the German army into Belgium and France made this extremely difficult."

"The fallen of the enemy are not buried in the same trench, but are placed together in a separate trench."

"The uniforms are taken from the bodies of the enemy's fallen and laid on top of the grave as a means of identification to friends. If they wear tags they are removed."

HOTELS' NEUTRAL MENUS.

French, German and Russian Names of Dishes Eliminated In Chicago.

The leading hotels and restaurants of Chicago in order to observe strict neutrality have eliminated from menus French, German and Russian names of popular dishes. The Germans have been boycotted French and Russian dishes, while "goulash" and "wiener schnitzel" found no favor with English, French and Russian guests.

Under the new rules of civilized eating as applied to peaceable Chicago restaurants where "canape russe" led off for luncheon, caviar on toast is the new appetizer. "Wiener schnitzel, Holstein," has been given its passports and veal cutlets with fried egg and vegetables rushed into its place. "Filet mignon" is no more; it is plain tenderloin steak. Chicken broth "en gelee" is just plain chicken broth in jelly. "Ris de veau aux petits pois" is nothing more nor less than sweetbreads with new peas. Chicken "sous cloche" is the same bird "under glass."

URGENT APPEAL TO MEN OF ENGLAND

Arthur Mee, Widely Known Journalist, Declares Country is Facing Possible Annihilation.

FIGHTING FOR HER HOMES

Says Democratic Government is Imperiled Unless Decisive Blow is Struck Now.

(By Ed L. Keen, Staff Correspondent of United Press.)

London, Sept. 21.—(By Mail to New York)—Arthur Mee, the well known Cardiff editor and journalist, has just written the greatest appeal yet made to the men of England to take up arms for their country. He declares that England is facing possible annihilation and that unless its citizens put forth every effort they can that they may become subjects of the Kaiser. His article follows:

"England is fighting for the right to be a Free Nation. She is fighting, not only for France and Belgium, but for our own homes.

"This war is a hundred times more important than the Boer War. It means life and death for us. We are fighting to keep our word but we are fighting also to keep our homes. We are fighting, with France and Belgium, to keep the Germans out of England.

"But the German army presses on, and your home, your country, these quiet streets, are in peril. You must help England now if you want to save her. If the Germans win you will be a subject of the Kaiser. You will no longer be a free citizen; you will be a Prussian slave, ruled with an iron rod by officers from Potsdam.

"There is no doubt about it and it is possible. It is possible that unless you strike a blow now, the last days of our free nation may be upon us. It is possible that the German army may defeat the Allies. It is possible that the British fleet may be beaten and that the German troops will land in England.

"If Germany should beat us you will be a colonist of Prussia. Your children will be taught German and compelled to speak it; your boys will be German conscripts. You will be taxed to keep up the German army; which will keep you down. You will lose all that England has given you your free speech, your vote, your free newspapers, your right to organize.

"Germany is not a democratic country. In England the people own the government, in Germany the government owns the people. The British idea is that the will of the people must agree with the will of the Emperor.

"In England the army is the servant of the nation; in Germany the military class overrides the people. In England the King rules through the ministers; in Germany the Emperor rules without them.

"There is no secret about the German Emperor's intentions. He means to conquer England and France. He is throwing away masses of troops to stagger the Allies to defeat by force of numbers, and is terrifying the civil population by cruelties too horrible to believe.

"He could have stopped the war by a word; he could even now stop the shooting down of innocent populations and the destruction of beautiful buildings and works of art.

"But he does not because he does not. It is his way of winning and he must win at any cost if he is to save his throne. He has staked his crown on the defeat of England in order that he may strip us of our trade and our Empire and be master of all Europe.

"The Germans are almost at our gates. The gallant Belgians and French are keeping them back until more British troops arrive in France. Our little army is doing its best but the dauntless spirit of our thousands cannot hold out forever against Germany's millions. Soon they must be at our doors.

"Then, if the German army should come, your freedom, your home, perhaps your life will go. Nothing will matter to you then. These streets will be filled with German troops; perhaps your house will be burned down; but those things will be nothing. What will matter if that all your life you will be under the heel of the German army; you will lose even the right to put a poster like this on your walls unless it has been passed by a German officer. That will be the end of England.

"Men—will you let England go down? She has done something for you. She has given you freedom and sheltered you while tyrants trampled on other lands. She has given you peaceful years and your children opportunities. She has made you prouder than a Roman.

"Will you help her now. England is in the gravest peril she has ever known and 10,000 men can save her. Our little army is fighting against great odds while you stand here. Will you stand and see it beaten?

"Give yourself for Home Defense or Foreign Service. Your family will be cared for and you will be free after the war. Apply at the Post Office."

FEDERAL PRIMARY PLAN ABANDONED

President Announces That Request for Important Change Will Not be Urged Now.

WOULD BURDEN THE PEOPLE

Explained That Federal Law Would Take Precedence Over Various State Enactments.

Washington, October 6.—The administration has abandoned its request for the enactment by the congress of a nationwide presidential primary law.

Unless some unforeseen demand of great importance should arise there will be no special session of the congress called after the adjournment of the coming short session on March 4 next.

The President spoke of these two important decisions at today's conference with the newspaper correspondents. It has been generally understood for several weeks that the administration was losing interest in the proposed nation-wide federal presidential primary law, but until today no authoritative information had been forthcoming. The President explained that recent conferences on the subject have developed obstacles which seem to make it unwise for the congress to take up the subject of direct primaries for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice-President.

The impossibility of prescribing a uniform system for the states appears to be the chief obstacles. The investigations made by members of the congress who were asked by the President to study the subject, show that it will be next to impossible to enact a federal law which would not complicate matters in many of the states. The President pointed out today that it would be desirable, of course, should provision be made for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice-President by direct vote of the people, to have the vote throughout the nation cast on the same day.

It has been found that this could not be done unless many of the states agreed to overhaul their nominating machinery. This overhauling, owing to the multiplicity of state laws on the subject of primaries, would, it is pointed out, be a huge task. Some persons who have given the subject a good deal of thought express the view that it would require several years to adjust state laws to a national primary law, even if the states should all show a willingness to conform to federal legislation.

A federal law, it is pointed out, would take precedence over the various state enactments, but any attempt to enforce a federal statute until the states had changed their laws to make them conform would, it was pointed out, place a great burden on the people. It would probably mean the holding of a federal primary on one day, a state primary on another day, and then the election. Evidently the administration has come to the view that the people in many of the states are already overburdened by a multiplicity of primaries and elections.

FURS

Some one has said that furs make a plain woman beautiful and a beautiful woman ravishing.

That may be a bit of poetic extravagance, but there is no question but furs enhance the costume and add to the beauty of the face.

The average woman does not buy furs as she does a new hat—with the thought that if it is not satisfactory she can easily get another. She buys them after careful consideration and selection, because it means a large expenditure of money, and therefore, must be made to last several seasons.

It is also true that the average woman does not know very much concerning fur value. It is, therefore, necessary that she buys from only reliable fur dealers.

In the advertising columns of The Republican are to be seen the announcements of fur sales by reliable merchants in almost every edition.

INDIANA PEOPLE FIND QUICK RELIEF FROM STOMACH TROUBLE

First Dose of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy Gives Most Surprising Results.

Hundreds of Indiana people have found relief from stomach and digestive troubles by the use of Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy.

This remedy is safe and efficient. The first dose gives results. And the treatment is not long. It has a wonderful record.

Here are the statements of two who have used and proven the merit of the remedy:

CHARLES INMAN, 424 East Chestnut Street, Hartford, City, Ind.—"Four doctors said they could not cure me unless I went to Fort Wayne to be operated on. I took your treatment. In three weeks I went to work and haven't missed but a half day since."

WALTER SPRAY, 1011 South Second Street, Frankfort, Ind.—"Before I took your medicine I suffered a great deal, but since I took the first dose I have not had a bad snell. I feel it is even more than you claim."

Letters like this come from all over the country. Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy produces results. The first dose proves it.

Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy clears the digestive tract of mucoid accretions and removes poisonous matter. It brings swift relief to sufferers from ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels. Many declare it has saved them from dangerous operations and many are sure it has saved their lives.

Because of the remarkable success of this remedy there are many imitators, so be cautious. Be sure it's MAYR'S. Go to C. E. THE DIVORCE PROCTOR.

People in Jackson county who have given serious thought and attention to the many divorce cases filed in the circuit court and who believe that a large percentage of them could be avoided and the parties reconciled if the right methods were pursued are interested in the plan of a Kansas City court in appointing a divorce proctor. An improvement has been made in the divorce laws in Indiana recently as the parties are now compelled to wait at least sixty days from the time the complaint is filed until the case is heard. It has been found that in that time a number of parties who asked for a legal separation because of a minor misunderstanding or quick action have later filed a motion to dismiss the case.

Those who have given serious attention to the divorce laws of Indiana fully appreciate the seriousness of the situation. It is indeed a tragedy to have a home shattered to pieces because of some insignificant disagreement which ought to be no ground at all for a divorce. That our divorce laws are much too lax cannot be questioned. Marriage is not a civil ceremony in form, but in reality the service is one of the most solemn of religious rites. The civil requirements have only been enacted in order that there might be an official record of the ceremony. When viewed from this standpoint it is clearly apparent that the divorce laws should be based upon something more than the whims and fancies of man.

Out in Kansas City, Thomas J. Murphy, a reporter, became interested in the many divorce cases and reached the conclusion that something could be done to remedy the existing evil. Through his influence a proctor was appointed by the judge and now each case is carefully investigated, the parties interviewed and the underlying causes studied. Mr. Murphy states that the "other man" or, "other woman" is the cause of many divorce cases but since the proctor has been appointed the wrongs have been righted, the families reunited with the result that they are now living happily together.

searing and has been ably set out as follows:

"There never was and never will be an innocent flirtation on the part of a married man or a married woman. I employ the word innocent, and I use it without any shading or qualification. Hope—that is the polite term I can think of in this connection—enters into the flirtations of all such persons. There is guilt in the heart. If no overt act has been committed, it will be if the flirtation continues. The most immoral people in a community are the very rich and the very poor."

The plan of appointing a divorce proctor is new but it seems to be worthy of careful study as it may answer a need that is felt in every community in the United States today. The divorce evil is undermining the institute of the American home and effective reforms cannot be instituted too soon.

The "skidding season" is here. In nearly every community the highways are being repaired and are resurfaced with fresh gravel. Automobilists should bear in mind that speeding through the soft metal is extremely dangerous and that it is very easy to lose control of the steering wheel. Frequently a driver will come upon a freshly graveled road at a sharp curve and unless he is very careful the machine will veer so suddenly that the rear wheels are thrown into the ditch. In this manner a number of accidents have already occurred this fall. They should serve as a warning to others. Moderate driving is the safest and surest way of avoiding accidents and at the same time reduces the strain on the machine. Slow driving through heavy gravel will take a few moments longer but will insure the ultimate arrival at the destination.

ROUTE OF FLORAL PARADE ARRANGED BY COMMITTEE

Entries Will Meet on North Chestnut Street Near Third, Promptly at 10:30 O'clock.

Final arrangements for the Floral Parade, one of the best features of the entire Festival were announced by the committee this afternoon. The parade will take place promptly at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning and will start at that hour. Those who expect to enter the line and fail to come in sufficient time will not participate. About thirty handsomely decorated vehicles have already entered.

The parade will form on Chestnut street near Third street and will proceed on Chestnut to Seventh. It will then cross on Seventh street to Walnut and proceed south on Walnut to Bruce, crossing to Chestnut and thence to Second street. At that point it will go to Ewing street and after reaching the end of the paved street will disband.

It is announced that the judges will come from out of the city and that the prizes will be awarded on merit alone. The judges will view the vehicles from several places along the route.

There will be a game of base ball Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 on the Schrier diamond between the Grays and the Ahlbrand team.

AUTOMOBILE CRASHES INTO GUY ROPE SUPPORTING TENT

Machine Owned by C. W. Cunningham is Damaged and Driver Receives Slight Injuries.

While attempting to run his automobile past the stage on Tipton street about 6 o'clock Monday night, B. W. Cunningham ran into a cable with such force that his machine was badly damaged. He also received a cut on his hand and several stitches were necessary to close up the wound.

The accident happened just before the street lights were switched on and as the headlights on the machine were not in use the driver could not see the cable. It struck the radiator and damaged it considerably. The windshield was broken and the steering wheel bent. Mr. Cunningham's injuries are not serious.

SMALL PERCENTAGE OF VOTERS DID NOT REGISTER

All Returns are not Yet Filed but About Ninety-Eight Per Cent. of Voters Qualifies.

While registration reports from all precincts in the county have not yet been received by the county auditor at Brownstown, indications are that 98 per cent. of the total vote has been registered. Complete reports will not be available for a day or two.

Realizing that those who failed to register yesterday would lose their franchise in the November election, several of the workers of each political party were kept busy yesterday rounding up the negligent voters. Party workers in Seymour estimate that probably 98 per cent. off the voters in the city have registered.

CINCINNATI CHAMBER OF COMMERCE COMING

Acceptance to Invitation of Chairman of the General Committee Has Been Received.

Seconding an invitation extended by the City Officials to the Chamber of Commerce of Cincinnati to attend the Fall Festival, Chairman T. S. Blish today wired the Cincinnati business men asking that they come on Thursday, the day of the dedication of the Farmers' Club Building. It is probable that the Trade Boosters' Club of the Chamber of Commerce will run a special train here for the occasion.

tober 6, 1864 and two years later were established in their own home in this city. Before coming here they lived for a few months at Columbus.

Mr. Eastwood was born in Holmfirth, Yorkshire, England, February 3, 1837, and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Eastwood. In 1863 he sailed for this country, landing at New York City on July 13. The three following years of his life were spent in the East, mostly in Massachusetts and Connecticut. Late in 1865 he moved to Columbus and the following year came to Seymour.

Mrs. Eastwood was also a native of Holmfirth and was born September 20, 1843. In the following year her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brooks, and her grandparents left England and came to America for future residence. For a time the family lived in the East, but later moved to Bartholomew county and afterwards to Seymour. Mr. and Mrs. Eastwood were the parents of four children, two of whom died in infancy. Heat Your Houses for Less Than Half the Cost You Can With Any Other Stove on Earth

Greatest Stove Ever Made

FOR BURNING SOFT COAL OR SLACK

Remember it is not what it costs to buy a stove, but what it costs to run it that bothers the people. Remember the Florence is the only smoke consuming stove on earth and that means the saving of 65 to 70 per cent. in coal above any other heating stove on earth.

Come and see the wonderful FLORENCE HOT BLAST. Let us explain why it will burn soft coal and slack with as steady heat as hard coal in a base burner. This marvelous Heater will burn soft coal and slack without any smoke; can be fed with the cheapest kind of fuel and refuse and will produce heat of amazing intensity. It will burn its own smoke, consume its own gas and through other wonderful workings will convince every beholder that it is a MARVEL AMONG HEATERS.

THE J. B. HOWARD COMBUSTION DEVICE, which has made the HOT BLAST AIR-TIGHT FLORENCE famous, is the only absolute smoke consuming device that has ever been constructed in the history of the burning of bituminous coal and the patent has been sustained three different times by the United States Courts.

NO SMOKE! NO SOOT! NO DIRT!

Everything Consumed. NO CLINKERS FROM HARD OR SOFT COAL!

Ashes as Fine as Powder. THE MOST ECONOMICAL STOVE ON EARTH!

It is not the original cost of a stove, but it is what it costs to operate it that counts. THE FLORENCE is an investment. It pays for itself in a very short time.

As a fire keeper it will be just as good 20 years from now. If the fire pot cracks inside of 5 years we will give you one free of charge.

THE ONLY FLOOR HEATER ON THE MARKET Or That Has Ever Been Made

THE FLORENCE Has twice the life of any other stove, because the Florence burns out the fuel; in all other stoves the fuel burns out the stove. It is truly a marvel—the most wonderful stove ever invented.

If the Florence is Operated According to Directions:

The No. 21 will heat one small room all winter with two tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 48 will heat two or three small rooms all winter with two and three-fourths tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 51 or No. 33 will heat three or four rooms all winter with three tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 53 or No. 35 will heat five rooms all winter with four tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 55 or No. 37 will heat a large store or school room with six tons of slack or lump coal. For a church less coal will be required.

Will burn a ton less of hard coal than a hard coal Base Burner of the same size and heat twice the space.

The No. 55 Ex. Top is most generally used for heating a large space and takes the same amount of coal as No. 55.

MAYOR DELIVERED OPENING ADDRESS

enumerating our industrial assets the B. & O. S-W. Railway easily takes first place, both as to number of men employed and amount of wages paid. This company's contribution to the welfare and prosperity of Seymour, is fully appreciated by all our people. The output of the Seymour Manufacturing Company is the largest of its kind in the world. The Seymour Woolen Mills Co. is the largest in Indiana. The Ahlbrand Carriage Company, a plant built from the start by native born citizens has attained a degree of success that makes it a pride to our people as well as to its owners.

"The products of the Blish Milling Company is known in every quarter of the globe. In output of furniture and chairs we are no mean city. The capacity of our harness factories warrants them in bidding on European government contracts as I am informed they have lately done. The Elmer Ice and Cold Storage plant will compare favorably with plants of like kind in much larger cities.

"I am sure our people do not have any idea of the size of plants and quality of work done in our printing establishments. Jackson County canned goods find sale in every state in the union.

"We said in the beginning we have met for both a worthy and an agreeable purpose. That the purpose is worthy I hope has been shown. That the purpose is agreeable is glaringly apparent, witness this vast assembly and the evidences of good cheer on all sides. The saying 'all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy,' applies with equal force to men. In this busy, bustling world we do not relax enough. The tension should be loosened occasionally and all should join in a spirit of good cheer and renew their youths in innocent amusements. That you may have an opportunity to do so on the citizens have supplied the funds and the amusement committee has assembled a line of clean free entertainments, the like of which has never before been attempted so far as we know.

"The privilege which comes to me in official capacity of welcoming friends, neighbors and citizens of this and neighboring counties to this feast of good things will ever be one of my fondest memories. Again, on behalf of the people of Seymour, I welcome one and all to our city and bid you partake of our bountiful feast freely."

JOFFRE ADMITS REVERSE

Allies' Line Bends Under Pressure.

GERMANS GAIN GROUND

Fighting Still Desperate But Undecisive.

THE DEADLOCK CONTINUES

The Germans Summon Fresh Resources to Field of Carnage.

Berlin, Oct. 6.—In the western theater of the war the battle on the right wing and in the Argonne district is proceeding successfully. The operations on Antwerp and in the eastern theater of the war have been carried out according to plans and without fighting.

Paris, Oct. 6.—It is reported that General Von Moltke has been superseded by General Von Voigts-Rhetz as chief of the German general staff.

London, Oct. 6.—The Germans undoubtedly have gained ground in the region of Roye at the hinge of the allied line. General Joffre admits a reverse. The allies' line has bent under tremendous pressure, but remains unbroken. North of the Oise, where the battle front forms a right angle, the fighting has been violent but undecisive.

Meanwhile the Germans have apparently failed to check the flanking movement whose point, according to official information, is within sixteen miles of the Belgian frontier, where menacing than ever to Von Kluck's western communications.

General Joffre's purpose now revealed, points to a drive at Mons and Brussels, while holding fast in the main battle line. This contemplates the relief of Antwerp as well as a weakening of the German center necessitated by army corps sent from the center to support Von Kluck.

The Deadlock Continues.

Along the fortified hills of Champagne the deadlock continues, but in the Argonne and along the Meuse the Germans, summoning fresh resources, are sleepless in their efforts to break the allied right wing and so open an urgently needed east and west line of communication from Metz. General Joffre has assured his government that these attacks have been beaten back.

The official reports of the twenty-third day of the battle are mere paragraphs of generalities, an indication invariably of a poignant stage of conflict. They contain, however, an official admission of the first French reverse for several days, a setback in the region where previous success had been noted.

In the Eastern Field.

It is unofficially reported from northwestern Galicia that the Russians have captured the fortresses of Tarnobrzeg. In southwestern Poland in the general region of Cracow, near Kielce, Russian cavalry has defeated German troops sent from France to defend Cracow. It is believed that a great battle has been begun in that region and that the engagement may determine the fate of both Cracow and Silesia. To the north in western Poland, great forces of Germans striking toward Warsaw have been checked and pressed back by the Russians. An official report from Petrograd says that the Germans suffered a severe defeat at Augustow and are in full retreat. The engagement was extremely obstinate in the region of Suwalki, where the Germans concentrated important forces, and had strongly fortified positions. The report says that the whole line of German retreat was blocked with the bodies of their dead and that the German invasion from East Prussia into Russia failed utterly.

In the Far East.

Japanese cavalry repulsed an attack of Germans near Tsingtao in Singhai Harbor, where there was an exchange of shots between Japanese and German ships, in which one German ship was struck by four shells. Japanese troops continue to advance along the Shantung railway, but the Japs assure the Chinese that the troops will be replaced by civilians. China, however, continues to protest against the violation of her territory.

British troops with big guns have arrived at Antwerp to assist the Belgians in the defense of the forts. The British are holding out.

The German government has served a notice on Roumania that she must withdraw her troops from the Rumanian border. A hasty meeting of the Roumanian cabinet was summoned to consider the communication.

PRINCE HENRY.

Brother of the Kaiser, Who Holds High Naval Rank.

ANTWERP HOLDS OUT AGAINST THE SIEGE

Situation Is Reported to Be Unchanged.

Brussels, Oct. 6.—British troops are now fighting side by side with the Belgians in the defense of Antwerp. The British heavy artillery has been of great help to the Belgians. So far not a single fort has been silenced or taken by the Germans.

London, Oct. 6.—An official announcement from Antwerp supplies the following: "The situation with reference to the fortified positions of the British and Belgian forces is unchanged."

In spite of German announcements that three forts and intermediate redoubts of Antwerp's outer defenses have been taken, reliance is placed here upon official statements by the Belgian government that no fort has been destroyed or has capitulated, and that the defense is vigorous and unbroken. There is apprehension, nevertheless, because German attempts to cross the River Nethe at Duffeld and points to the west, midway between Fort Waelhem and Fort St. Catherine, seem to indicate that the Germans have penetrated the outer line of defense. However, they have been unable to cross the Nethe in the face of determined resistance by British and French artillery and infantry.

THE PRESIDENT'S NEW AUTO

Two Others From the Same Shop Are on the Way.

Washington, Oct. 6.—A new sixty-six horse power touring car of the most modern type has arrived at the White House for the president. The cost of the car, which was authorized by congress, was $6,000.

In a short time two other new cars from the same shop are to arrive for the president. One of these is to be a limousine costing $7,500. A new car of the same make—a limousine—also has arrived for Secretary to the President Tumulty.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

The water in the Ohio river is lower than it has been for several years.

Maurice Chevallier, the French expert aviator, has been captured by the Germans.

Rear Admiral Thomas H. Stevens, U. S. N., retired, is dead at Washington.

Colonel Paty Du Clam, who figured in the Dreyfus case, is among the wounded in Paris hospital.

National Chairman McCombs has declined the chairmanship of the New York Democratic state committee.

All plans for holding the third international peace conference at The Hague next year have been abandoned.

It is said the German emperor has promised to confer a special decoration on the first German aviator to drop explosives on London.

One result of the war has been a distinct religious revival in France. The so-called "clerical peril" has disappeared from popular imagination.

Prince Francis Joseph of Hohenzollern, nephew of the kaiser, is aboard the German cruiser Emden, which has been raiding British commerce in the Indian ocean.

Mrs. Richard Darby, who was Miss Ethel Roosevelt, has arrived in Paris to join her husband, Dr. Richard Darby, who is doing ambulance work in the French capital.

Secretary Bryan is endeavoring to bring Germany, Austria and Japan into the peace treaty fold, since they are the only powers which have not signed one of these agreements with the United States.

Lieutenant William Whealey, Thirtieth cavalry, has been dismissed from the United States army, following his conviction by a court martial on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman.

GERMANY FACING A DECISIVE TEST

Russia Massing for the Main Blow.

CZAR TAKES PERSONAL CHARGE

With the Arrival of the Russian Ruler at the Headquarters of His Great Central Army It is Regarded as Certain That the Carefully Aimed Advance Against Breslau Is About to Begin.

Petrograd, Oct. 6.—The initial operations along the line of the new great battle proved the superior speed and mobility of the Russian cavalry, especially the Cossacks, over the Germans. There has been heavy cannonading near Pabjanice. The Germans burned all the villages near Kalisz. They are deploying an immense army southeast of Breslau and are fortifying elevations between Breslau and Cracow.

London, Oct. 6.—The news from the eastern theater of war, summarized, is as follows:

In northwestern Galicia the Russians have captured the fortress of Tarnobrzeg. Cossacks are raiding within ten miles of Cracow. The czar's southern armies are developing their offensive against the right wing of the Austro-German forces.

In southwestern Poland, in the general region of Cracow, near Kielce, Russian cavalry has defeated German troops sent from France to defend Cracow. Unquestionably a great battle has been fought in that vicinity, a battle which may determine the fate of Cracow and Silesia. To the north of Poland a great force of Germans striking toward Warsaw has been checked and pressed back by the Russians. Simultaneously the Russian central army, now under the personal command of Czar Nicholas, is advancing toward the Posen-Kalisz line, with Brest-Litovsk, a railway center on the Bug river, as its base. The cavalry screen of this army is in conflict with German outposts.

Rennenkampf's Operations.

In the East Prussia-Suwalki field of operations General Rennenkampf, after routing the Germans along the River Niemen and frustrating an advance toward Warsaw from the northwest, has driven a wedge between German columns acting respectively around Druskeniki and Ossowiec and has turned both flanks. Rennenkampf's large force is obviously struggling to hold at bay German strength at the East Prussian frontier so as to give time for the advance of the Russian central army against Breslau. Petrograd reports that he has been uniformly successful in this strategy.

For the first time there is definite news of the Russian central army, the host which has been preparing for the real invasion of Germany while campaigns in East Prussia and Galicia have served to insure the safety of the flanks. This army, estimated at 1,000,000 men, is under the command of the Grand Duke Nicholas, the Russian commander in chief, with headquarters at Brest-Litovsk, a railway junction at the intersection of the Bug and Moukhevietz rivers.

The Czar at the Front.

The czar arrived at Brest-Litovsk Sunday and was accompanied to the headquarters of the commander in chief and the general staff by General Soukominoff, minister of war. It is conjectured that the presence of the monarch is for the purpose of a final conference with the commander in chief before the main blow against Germany is launched. Hitherto there has been the utmost secrecy maintained concerning the flower of Russia's veteran troops. All reports signify that the most important news in coming weeks will concern the advance of this army, since operations in East Prussia, South Poland and even in Galicia are really subordinate to the central campaign against Breslau.

Invasion of Hungary.

Your Rome correspondent learns that the Russians have seized all essential passes in the Carpathians and that the advance of the column invading Hungary has progressed fifty miles. It has crossed the River Theiss, seized the railroad to Budapest, and has completely isolated the city of Szeged.

A dispatch from Paris says: "The German army in the east, operating in the Suwalki region, has been cut in two. One section has been crushed between Augustow and Suwalki, with losses amounting to 60,000 men. The second section proceeded to Mariampol, which place the Russians have occupied, inflicting enormous losses on the Germans. The River Niemen is choked with German dead.

"An Austrian column has been decimated at Nimoukitz, leaving many big guns and mitrailleuses. Many prisoners were taken by the Russians. The Cossacks are now ten miles from Cracow."

Child Burned to Death.

Brazil, Ind., Oct. 6.—Dorothy, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Weese, living south of the city, was burned to death as the result of playing with matches. Her clothing caught fire.

ADMIRAL VON BAUDISSIN

One of the Commanders in Kaiser Wilhelm's Big Navy.

AN EXPLANATION IS DUE

And Builders of This Submarine Are Anxious to Hear It.

Rome, Oct. 6.—A submarine boat which had just been completed in a shipyard on the Gulf of Spezia has disappeared and it is declared that a retired naval lieutenant, Angelo Bellini, who was in charge of her, has taken the vessel to some secret destination. The submarine was out for trial in the Gulf of Spezia, and when she did not return a torpedo boat was sent to search for her.

Lieutenant Bellini in a letter to the firm that constructed the boat said he would furnish an explanation for the disappearance of the craft. He added that the crew of the submarine was ignorant of his plans.

PEACE PROBLEM A TICKLISH ONE

Mexicans Apparently Would Rather Fight.

CONFERENCE NOW IN DOUBT

Shifting Alignment of Rival Factions in the Long Disturbed Republic to the South and the Resumption of Fighting on a Determined Scale Make It Probable Peace Palaver Will Be Called Off.

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 6.—Following the defection of Maclovio Herrerra with 5,000 men, General Villa suffered the loss of General Chao and his command, according to advices received here. General Chao with his command went over to the Carranza side.

Chao, who was Carranzaista governor of Chihuahua and was deposed some time ago in favor of General Avila, was sent by Villa to Parral with orders if possible to capture Herrerra, who deserted to Carranza, and in any event, to garrison the town. Chao went to Parral, but, according to the advices, kept on going after he arrived there, his intention being to join Herrerra, who it is reported will join the Arriet brothers in Sinaloa. The three former Villa leaders control more than 10,000 well equipped men. They have ample supplies of ammunition, having been recently outfitted by Villa. This force combining with Carranza troops in Sinaloa, would make a formidable force to invade Sonora and threaten General Maytorena in the rear while he is engaged at Naco trying to capture that city from General Hill, who is holding the place in the name of Carranza.

This sudden turn in the situation, together with the action of Carranza's generals at Mexico City in refusing to accept the resignation of the "supreme chief," is said here to have knocked all peace negotiations galley west and made it necessary for Villa to take the field at once.

Nearly all of the prominent Villa leaders are at Torreon. It is reported that a number of his delegates who were already in Aguas Calientes, have returned, and doubt is expressed that the conference will be held.

Villa has received in Juarez nearly 10,000,000 cartridges in the last few days.

COMPLAIN TO WASHINGTON

Citizens of Arizona Town Don't Like Mexican Bullets.

Naco, Ariz., Oct. 6.—Fighting at long distance has been continuous between the Carranzaista forces, holding Naco, Sonora, and the Villa forces under Governor Maytorena, who attacked the town Sunday evening. During Sunday night the fighting was heavy, but at daylight the Maytorena forces retired, continuing their fire yesterday from a long distance. As dusk approached last evening the attack was renewed with vigor.

Colonel Hatfield, brigade commander, has arrived from Douglas and has taken charge of the American troops guarding the American side of the border. Bullets continue to fall on the American side of the line, and the citizens of Naco wired a protest to President Wilson, declaring that American lives are being endangered.

Mexican agents on the Arizona side of the line reported that one of General Hill's officers made a sortie with a small detachment and captured twenty-five of Maytorena's Yaqui Indians. All the Indians were immediately shot.

A visit to the Maytorena camp developed several facts and set at rest the report given out by Hill's men that part of Maytorena's forces had rebelled. Maytorena said he had no advices as to whether or not Carranza had landed an army at Guayamas or whether Carranza forces were approaching from Sinaloa. He said General Juan Antonio Garea, one of the best fighters in Sonora, was at the boundary between Sonora and Sinaloa, preparing to come into Sonora to aid him at a minute's notice with 3,500 men.

Barr Says He Has No Regrets For Killing Lovelace.

Columbus, Ind., Oct. 6.—John Barr, aged seventy-five, a veteran of the civil war, who shot and killed Daniel Lovelace, aged fifty-five, at Elizabethtown, has been arrested. He says he has no regrets for the murder.

Barr, according to the police, found Mrs. Barr, aged fifty, in the company of Lovelace. A quarrel ensued and Barr shot Lovelace four times. The killing was witnessed by Barr's ninety-year-old son.

Explosion Near Birmingham Due to Pocket of Gas.

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 6.—Twelve men are known to be dead and twelve injured as a result of an explosion in the Mulga mines of the Woodward Iron company, eighteen miles northwest of Birmingham.

Officials of the company declare the explosion was purely local, resulting from a pocket of gas being uncovered.

Detroit, Oct. 6.—For the eighth consecutive year Ty Cobb is the king of the American League batsmen. Ty wound up the 1914 season with a mark of 366, his lowest since 1908. No man in the league has a chance to equal this figure.

CONGRESS NEARING END OF ITS LABORS

President Expresses Hope of Early Adjournment.

Washington, Oct. 6.—President Wilson told a visitor that he hoped congress would complete its labors in time to adjourn Saturday night. The president said that the only thing he had in mind that it remained for congress to do before adjournment was to approve the conference report on the Clayton bill and pass the war revenue bill. The president said it was not certain congress would be called in extraordinary session in November. He said that matter was to be decided on after further conferences with Democratic leaders in congress.

The program which the president has in mind for the next session consists of the Philippine bill, the ship purchase bill, the two remaining conservation bills and appropriation measures. The president has absolutely no surprises in store for the country next session. His policy and that of the Democratic leaders will be to give the country a rest.

Democratic senators, deciding to take the war revenue bill into the party caucus to perfect it, at noon today assembled in the finance committee rooms of the senate office building, and there began the work of reconciling their differences, which are many. The bill will come into the senate probably Thursday morning and will take ten days or two weeks to pass, it is said.

The senate adopted the conference report on the Clayton anti-trust bill by a vote of 35 to 24, only three Democrats voting against it.

Representative Henry of Texas continues his promised filibuster against the adjournment of congress until some action is taken on the bill he has introduced calling for a federal issue of $500,000,000 in currency against the stocks of cotton held by the producers of the south. The temper of the house toward Mr. Henry is becoming deeply resentful, and it is thought that the Democrats of the house are voicing more and more in the direction of forcing an adjournment.

Then He Shot Himself.

Indianapolis, Oct. 6.—Claude Davis, twenty-eight years old, a paroled convict, shot and fatally wounded himself after an unsuccessful attempt to kill his divorced wife because she refused "to talk things over."

The Last Shot

By FREDERICK PALMER

(Copyright, 1914, by Charles Scribner's Sons)

His company was a company with his smile out of its heart and in its place blank despair. Many of the men had stopped firing. Some had even run back to look at him and stood, caps off, backs to the enemy, miserable in their grief. Others leaned against the parapet, rifles out of hand, staring and dazed.

"They have killed our captain!"

"They've killed our captain!"—still a captain to them. A general's stars could not have raised him a cubit in their estimation.

"And once we called him 'Baby Dellarme,' he was so young and bashful! Him a baby? He was a king!"

"Men, get to your places!" cried the surviving lieutenant rather hopelessly, with no Dellarme to show him what to do; and Marta saw that few paid any attention to him.

In that minute of demoralization the Grays had their chance, but only for a minute. A voice that seemed to speak some uncontrollable thought of her own broke in, and it rang with the authority and leadership of a mature officer's command, even though coming from a gardener in blue blouse and crownless straw hat.

"Your rifles, your rifles, quick!" called Feller. "We're only beginning to fight!"

And then another voice in a bull roar, Stransky's:

"Avenge his death! They've got to kill the last man of us for killing him! Revenge! Revenge!"

That cry brought back to the company all the fighting spirit of the cheery smile and with it another spirit—for Dellarme's sake!—which he had never taught them.

Stransky picked up one of several cylindrical objects that were lying at his feet.

"He wouldn't use this—he was too soft-hearted—but I will!" he cried, and flung a hand-grenade, and then a second, over the breastwork. The explosions were followed by agonized groans from the Grays hugging the lower side of the terrace. For this they had crawled across the road in the night—to find themselves unable to move either way and directly under the flashes of the Browns' rifles.

Feller's and Stransky's shouts rose together in a peculiar unity of direction and full of the fellowship they had found in their first exchange of glances.

"You engineers, make ready!"

"Hand-grenades to the men under the tree! That's where they're going to try for it—no wall to climb over there!"

"You engineers, take your rifles—and bayonet into anything that wears gray!"

"Get back, you men by the tree, to avoid their hand-grenades! Form up behind them, everybody!"

"No matter if they do get in at first! Back, you men, from under the tree!"

There was not a single rifle-shot. In a silence like that before the word to fire in a duel, all orders were heard and the more readily obeyed because Dellarme's foresight had impressed their sense upon the men in his quiet way.

The sand-bags by the tree were blown up by the Grays. Then, before the dust had hardly settled, came a half score of hand-grenades thrown by the first men of a Gray wedge, scrambling as they were pushed through the breach by the pressure of the mass behind. In that final struggle of one set of men to gain and another to hold a position, guns or automatics or long-range bullets played no part. It was the grapple of cold steel with cold steel and muscle with muscle, in the billowing, twisting mob of wrestlers, with no sound from throats but straining breaths; with no quarter, no distinction of person, and bloodshot eyes and faces hot with the effort of brute strength striving, in primitive desperation, to kill in order not to be killed. The cloud of rocking, writhing arms and shoulders was neither going forward nor backward. Its movement was that of a vortex, while the gray stream kept on pouring through the breach as if it were only the first flood from some gray lake on the other side of the breastwork.

Marta had come to the edge of the veranda, at once drawn and repelled, feeling the fearful suspense of the combat, the savage horror of it, and herself uttering sounds like the straining breaths of the men. What a place for her to be! But she did not think of that. She was there. The dreadful alchemy of war had made her a stranger to herself. She was mad; they were mad; all the world was mad!

One minute—two, perhaps—not three—and the thing was over. She saw the Grays being crushed back and realized that the Browns had won, while the last details of the lessening tumult fixed her attention with their gladiatorial simplicity. Here, indeed, it was a case of man to man with the weapons nature gave him.

"I thought so!" cried Feller. "Attacks on frontal positions by daylight are going out of fashion!"

It was he who mercifully arrested the shower of hand-grenades that followed the exit of the enemy. Two of the guns of the castle batteries, having changed their position, were making havoc enough at pointblank range, with a choice of targets between the Grays huddled on the other side of the breastwork and those in retreat.

One of the Grays, his cheek bearing the mark of a boot heel, raised himself, and, in defiance and the satisfaction of the thought to his bruises and humiliation, pointing his finger at Feller, Marta heard him say:

"You there, in your straw hat and blue blouse, they've seen you—a man fighting and not in uniform! If they catch you it will be a drumhead and a firing squad at dawn!"

"That's so!" replied Feller gravely. "But they'll have to make a better job of it than you fellows did if they're going to—"

He turned away abruptly but did not move far. His shoulders relaxed into the gardener's stoop, and he pulled his hat down over his eyes and lowered his head as if to hide his face. He was thus standing, inert, when a division staff-officer galloped into the grounds.

"Where is Major Dellarme?"

When he saw Dellarme's still body he dismounted and in a tide of feeling which, for the moment, submerged all thought of the machine, stood, head bowed and cap off, looking down at Dellarme's face.

"I was very fond of him! He was at school when I was teaching there. But a good death—a soldier's death!" he said. "I'll write to his mother myself." Then the voice of the machine spoke. "Who is in command?"

"I am, sir!" said the callow lieutenant.

"You, There, in Your Straw Hat and Blue Blouse."

ant, coming up. But the men of the company spoke.

"Bert Stransky!" they roared.

It was not according to military etiquette, but military etiquette meant nothing to them now. They were above it in veteran superiority.

"Where's Stransky?" demanded the staff-officer.

"You're looking at him!" replied Stransky with a benign grin.

Seeing that Stransky was only a private, the officer frowned at the anomaly when a lieutenant was present, then smiled in a way that accorded the company parliamentary rights, which he thought that they had fully earned.

"Yes, and he gets one of those iron crosses!" put in Tom Fraglin.

"Yes—the first cross for Bert of the Reds!"

"And we'll let him make a dozen anarchist speeches a day!"

"Yes, yes!" roared the company.

"The ayes have it!" the officer announced cheerfully. He lifted his cap to Marta. With tender regard and grave reverence for that company, he took extreme care with his next remark lest a set of men of such dynamic spirit might repulse him as an invader. "The lieutenant is in command for the present, according to regulations," he proceeded. "You will retire immediately to positions 48 and 49 A—J by the castle road. You have done your part. Tonight you sleep and tomorrow you rest."

Sleep! Rest! Where had they heard those words before? Oh, yes, in a distant day before they went to war! Sleep and rest! Better far than an iron cross for every man in the company! They could go now with something warmer in their hearts than consciousness of duty well done; but this time they need not go until their dead as well as their wounded were removed.

Feller started to pass around the corner of the house; he was confronted by Marta, who had come to the end of the veranda. There, within hearing of the soldiers, the dialogue that followed was low-toned, and it was swift and palpitant with repressed emotion.

"Mr. Feller, I saw you at the automatic. I heard what the wounded private of the Grays said to you and realized how true it was."

"He is a prisoner. He cannot tell."

"I feel that I have no right to let you go to your death by a firing squad," she interrupted hurriedly, "and I shall not! For I decide now not to allow the telephone to remain!"

"T—he looked around at the automatic ravenously and fearfully—"I—"

"It is all simply arranged. There is time for me to use the telephone before the Grays arrive. I shall tell Lanny why you took charge of the gun."

"I've changed my mind! Exit gardener! Enter gunner! I'm going with you!" he cried in a jubilant voice that arrested the attention of every one on the grounds.

SUFFERED TWENTY-ONE YEARS FINALLY FOUND RELIEF

Having suffered for twenty-one years with a pain in my side, I finally have found relief in Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. Injections of morphine were my only relief for short periods of time. I became so sick that I had to undergo a surgical operation in New Orleans, which benefited me for two years. When the same pain came back one day I was so sick that I gave up hopes of living. A friend advised me to try your Swamp-Root and I at once commenced using it. The first bottle did me so much good that I purchased two more bottles. I am now on my second bottle and am feeling like a new woman. I passed a gravel stone as large as a big red bean and several small ones. I have not had the least feeling of pain since taking your Swamp-Root and I feel it my duty to recommend this great medicine to all suffering humanity.

Gratefully yours,

MRS. JOSEPH CONSTANCE.

Rapides P ar. Echo, La.

Personally appeared before me, this 15th day of July, 1911, Mrs. Joseph Constance, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

French Executive to Visit Battling Army.

Paris, Oct. 5.—The French government will create four marshals of France. The men selected are Generals Joseph J. C. Joffre, the commander in chief of the French army; J. S. Gallieni, the military governor of Paris; Gerald P. Pau, and C. De Castelnau, who are on the fighting line.

Bordeaux, Oct. 5.—President Poincaré now is on his way to visit the allied armies in northern France. He left here in an auto Sunday afternoon, accompanied by Premier Viviani and M. Millerand, the minister of war. The party will go first to the general field headquarters. It is officially stated that President Poincaré has been desirous for some time of paying a visit to the forces in the field, but the military authorities had hitherto considered that the opportune moment had not arrived for such a visit.

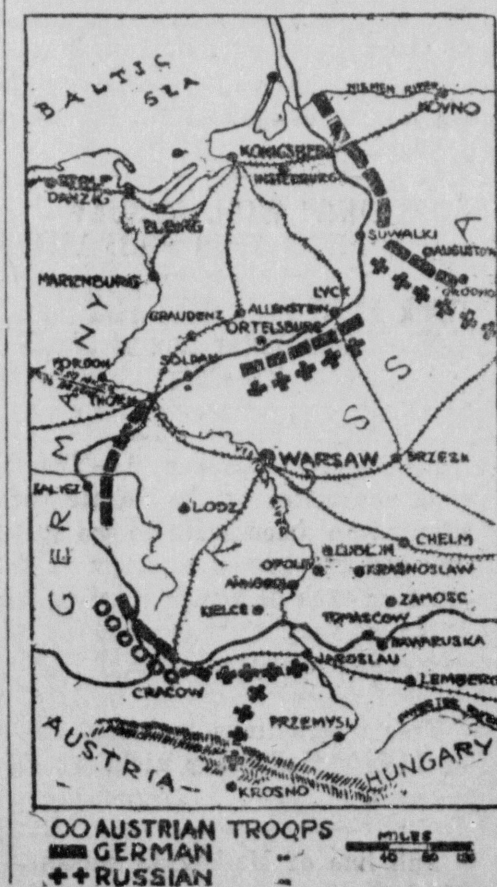

During the absence of Premier Viviani, M. Aristide Briand, minister of justice, will preside over the meetings of the cabinet. As the visit occurs on the day after the czar left for the front, the Temps considers this a far more significant event than the fact that the kaiser is hastening to Silesia. The paper says:

"Czar Nicholas's presence at the head of his army will have considerable weight in the Balkans and in Italy as marking the moment for great resolutions on the part of those who are awaiting to reach a decision. It will decide popular opinion in Roumania, which is offering the king the alternative of doing his duty as a constitutional monarch or of transmitting to his nephew the crown which he wished to lay aside in 1870 after the manifestations by organizations of the sympathy of the people with France."

"A Russian cavalry force operating with field batteries near the Prussian frontier, sighted a Zeppelin which was taking notes of the Russian positions. The Zeppelin was bombarded and brought to earth."

MOTHER OF SCHOOL GIRL

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Daughter's Health.

Plover, Iowa.—"From a small child my 13 year old daughter had female weakness. I spoke to three doctors about it and they did not help her any. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had been of great benefit to me, so I decided to have her give it a trial. She has taken five bottles of the Vegetable Compound according to directions on the bottle and she is cured of this trouble. She was all run down when she started taking the Compound and her periods did not come right. She was so poorly and weak that I often had to help her dress herself, but now she is regular and is growing strong and healthy."—Mrs. MARTIN HELVIG, Plover, Iowa.

Hundreds of such letters expressing gratitude for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished are constantly being received, proving the reliability of this grand old remedy.

If you are ill do not drag along and continue to suffer day in and day out but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a woman's remedy for woman's ills.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

EXHIBIT BOOTHS

PROVE POPULAR

serves her garden vegetables as well as fruit for winter use is shown in the display of canned beans, beets and peas, pickled onions, celery, mixed pickles, mangoes and even our old friend rhubarb.

The vegetable display, Booth No. 4, in front of the New Lynn Hotel, is in charge of Charles S. Milburn. There are over eighty entries, covering almost every variety of garden products. Some exceptionally fine displays of tomatoes, beans, beets, Irish and sweet potatoes, parsnips, cabbage, mangoes and egg plant are shown. Two entries which are creating comment are a large, perfectly white carrot, and two large sweet potatoes, the combined weight of which is fifteen pounds, or one peck.

The pumpkin display, on East Second Street, near Ewing, is in charge of F. W. Wesner. There are over one hundred entries, including everything from the little cow pumpkin to the gigantic specimens weighing 110 and 115 pounds. There are several varieties of squashes, including the Nutmeg, the Banana, the Guard, the Hubbard, and the plain pumpkin squash. Two peculiar specimens are a large Alligator pumpkin and a twin pumpkin formed of two large well formed pumpkins. Several large watermelons are also shown at this booth. Judge Wesner is becoming quite an expert on pumpkins and is enthusiastic about his display.

The Needlework display, Booth No. 7, in front of the Good Mine, is in charge of W. H. Hughes, and is probably the most popular place with the women folk.

The display is really a remarkable collection of fancy things that please a woman's eyes. There are all kinds of drawn work, embroidery, French Knot, Fluffe, Wallachin, Battenberg, Tatting, quilts, spreads, etc. Of especial interest is the display of a hand worked silk log cabin quilt, the work of a colored slave in ante bellum days; an exquisite piece of embroidery over 80 years old; the specimen of beautiful hand made embroidery, worked on black velvet with gold thread, made in Greece by Mrs. Jas. Demas. There is also a showing of three pieces of beaded work, the work of a lady ninety years of age, and a crocheted bed spread made by a German lady near Seymour, in which 16,800 yards of No. 8 white thread was used.

The miscellaneous booth on South Chestnut contains some very interesting specimens of historical value. A fine exhibit of old coins, paper scrip and currency is shown, prominent among which is an Egyptian coin made three centuries before Christ, a Spanish coin of the late of 1845, and American coins as old as 1817. There is also an old bible printed in 1709, several old Seymour papers printed in the 70's, and five different specimens of the old spinning wheel. There are many other interesting and historical curios shown here, which will well repay a visit and inspection. Taken all in all, the display of fruits, vegetables, produce and hand work shown in the various booths is an excellent tribute to the thrift, skill and industry of the farmers, and housewives of Seymour and Jackson county and one of which they may well be proud.

I have taken the agency for the Centennial Automobile Machine made at Franklin. Have been driving one for a week and find it satisfactory in every way. J. U. Montgomery.

A GREAT SUCCESS

canes decorated with Festival ribbons.

The parade moved up Second street to Ewing, countermarched to Chestnut, south on Chestnut to Bruce and countermarched to Tipton street, through crowds so dense that the officers had to constantly keep pushing them back to make room for the marchers. Red fire lit up the streets and fireworks added to the brilliancy of the scene. It is doubtful if there was ever a larger crowd out for an opening night at any event of similar character held in Seymour. Interurban cars fairly had to creep through the streets and ordinary street traffic would have been out of the question. When the parade reached the stage on Tipton street, where the opening exercises were held the band gave a short concert in front of the stage, and brought roars of applause from the crowd, with the old time-worm, yet ever popular "Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight." The members of the council and F. W. Wesner and Mayor Ross mounted the platform, where after being introduced by Mr. Wesner, the chief executive of the city formally opened the Free Fall Festival. After the Mayor's address the first performance of the various attractions were given.

On the Tipton street stage the Kawana Japs gave an excellent and entertaining balancing and acrobatic act. Their barrel juggling won them a good round of applause and is considered one of the best acts of its kind ever seen here.

Montrose and Hamilton in their comedy barrel jumping act, and Geo. O'Doie, with his unsupported ladder act, were also very good.

On East Second street, Saymoa, in his famous cloud swing, thrilled the great crowd with his daring acts in the air.

Granda, the tight wire performer, gave a thrilling exhibition of his skill on the wire stretched across Second street. He performed seemingly impossible feats on the high wire with apparent ease, and seemed to enjoy his work. Fedora, who takes the part of the "better half" of the human elephant which is the feature of their act, could not reach here yesterday, but is expected today.

The crowd that witnessed the acts on the West Second street stage was enormous. The audience extended from the rear of the platform in the center of the block to the middle of the square east. The windows were filled with people and even on the tops of the buildings were scores of boys who sought advantageous places.

The knife throwing act of the Zat Zams is thrilling in the extreme. The heavy, sharp pointed blades are driven deep into the board yet with such a high degree of skill that the none of them strike even the dress of the woman. The crowning feature of this act is when the woman is completely covered by a sheet of paper and the knives are driven all around her. In this act Zat Zam is blindfolded. The illusion act by the same company was enjoyed, and many are trying to find out how "it is done."

The Barnyard Circus by the Leslies merits commendation. The various animals are well trained. The Zouaves put on an excellent drill which was roundly applauded. The quick double step of this drill makes the movement one of vigor and action such as to appeal to a crowd of American pleasure seekers. The free attractions all pleased, and seem to be exceptionally high class.

CITY SCHOOLS WILL BE

DISMISSED IN AFTERNOONS

Opportunity Will Also be Given Pupils to Witness Floral Parade Wednesday Morning.

Superintendent Mott announced today that a special schedule of classes for the public schools had been arranged for the rest of the week in order that the pupils may witness the afternoon features of the Festival. Wednesday morning the classes will be adjourned in time to see the floral parade which will be held at 10:30 o'clock.

SITUATION IN FRANCE

IS CAUSING ANXIETY

Later Developments do not Support Optimistic Reports Given Out Last Week.

By Ed L. Keen.

London, October 6.—The situation in France is causing great anxiety in non-military circles. The optimistic attitude of the war office during the latter part of last week aroused great expectations. It was said the long drawn out Battle of the Aisne would soon end with complete victory. Now with the knowledge that the Germans have extended their line there are fears that the government is withholding much information regarding the exact situation.

The war office has nothing to say but to state that the general situation remains good. There are no details of the fate of the British troops. Even the location of the various units are withheld.
